

AGED MAN TO SEE DAUGHTER AT LAST

This Thanksgiving To Be Happiest in More Than 35 Years

JOY DISPELLED GRIEF

News That Child Has Been At Last Located Brightens Life of Hermit.

Thanksgiving this year will be a day in the truest meaning of the word to a gray-haired Texas man of 35 years. It will mean the end of a long life of loneliness and a separation from his only child, a daughter whom he has not seen since she was a black-haired girl of four.

The shadows of evening were gathering in the life of John H. Benton of Tulsa, when like a shaft of light from a midday sun came a letter from Portland, Ore., telling him that he had found the child for whom he had sought so long and that the longed-for and dreamt-of reunion would be in the near future.

John Benton's face is twisted by a smile that is brighter than any he has worn in more than 30 years. It was toward the end of 1912 that he became embittered against life. Prior to that time he was a happy man in fact he had married his daughter in a wealthy man in a 100-acre house in Dallas.

Little Johnnie, his only daughter, came in 1877. Benton was born and circumstances then and the little family was happy. Then came the厄运 that blighted the tranquility of the little home.

Don't Marry Rich.

As to what caused the estrangement that resulted, Benton is silent. "Do not marry the daughter of a rich man" is the significant advice that he gave his friends on several occasions. Johnnie was 4 years old when her mother died. A few years later Benton left for Oklahoma. Wherever he went he did all that he could to protect his wife and child.

Working under the baneful of a scant education he was unable to find them and almost gave up hope. During the 15 years that he has lived near Tulsa he told no one. Everyone thought that Uncle John, as the old man is called, had always been single. He lived alone on a little farm out near the suburbs of the city almost a hermit.

During those lonely years the old girl was growing to womanhood in a western state like her father she was lonely and lonely. Her parent who was but a dim memory to her. Through a distant relative she heard that Benton had gone to Tulsa from Illinois and that was her reason for writing to the Tulsa police department.

Good News Causes Illness.

Mrs. Eva M. Moore, police matron, became interested in the letter and the newspaper ran it in full. The efforts to locate the family were not of the old man living alone in the country and decided that it must be the father of Mrs. Johnnie Benton of Portland.

Yesterday morning the agent again went to the police station through the dispatcher to Mrs. Bentons office, who was just moment ago in doubt as to whether or not she would come. She was sent to the office and her statement was that apparently the old man in the account of his son had made mention of his son's having been taken to the name of a former neighbor Clinton H. Jones at 329 East Eighth.

Later yesterday a message was received in the post office telling them that the daughter of the old man was now in Tulsa. This morning Clinton Jones, who is about 60 years old, came to the office. Surprised by his visit, he said that the lawyer whom he had been now dealing with since beginning his law practice when his daughter's arrival will end forever the long years of solitude and waiting.

An express car, borrowed in the morning, features a new baby carriage to permit an attendant to rest.
